Canongate

Canongate is offering early release of I Get Loud by David Quimet, as well as illustrated bookplates, signed by David. Publishing on 1st July, independent bookshops will be able to get stock two weeks early, in time for the beginning of Independent Bookshop Week.

I Get Loud is the gorgeously illustrated sequel to the acclaimed I Go Quiet, which Neil Gaiman called 'astonishingly beautiful', and is about discovering friendship for the first time. It is a tale of the emboldening nature of the imagination, the redemptive power of friendship and why we should all embrace our own beautiful, singular weirdness. It has been also been longlisted for the CILIP Kate Greenway Medal.

Please contact your rep if you are interested in this offer, or if you don't have a rep please emails Drew.Hunt@canongate.co.uk.

Head of Zeus

Head of Zeus is offering independent bookshops POS and signed editions of The Wolf Den by Elodie Harper: publishing 13th May, hardback, £16.99, 9781838933531.

Amara was once a beloved daughter, until her father's death plunged her family into penury. Now she is a slave in Pompeii's infamous brothel, owned by a man she despises. Sharp, clever and resourceful, Amara is forced to hide her talents. For as a she-wolf, her only value lies in the desire she can stir in others. But Amara's spirit is far from broken.

Please email Lottie Chase if you are interested in this offer lottie@headofzeus.com

Hodder & Stoughton

In June, Hodder & Stoughton are delighted to be publishing What Planet Can I Blame This On? by Ellie Pilcher (one of the book industry's own). This is Ellie's debut novel about a woman named Krystal who, when things in her life start to go wrong one by one, becomes convinced it is the fault of Saturn return – the time in a woman's life where Saturn returns to the position it was in on the day of their birth, 29.5 years ago, and supposedly everything goes to shit. Left with little else to hold onto, Krystal deflects responsibility onto the stars, and we follow this imperfect heroine as she learns a lot about herself/astrology/crystals/tarot. Ellie works in Marketing at HarperCollins and she does a lot of work around making the publishing industry more accessible – running workshops, giving 'getting into the books industry' talks, and as an all-round huge champion of independent bookshops. She will be available throughout Independent Bookshop Week and beyond, for virtual or instore events, and is especially great at talking about writing and getting published – as well as the stars, of course. We have designed bespoke bookplates for independent bookshops to mark IBW, which Ellie has signed and we would love to send out to any booksellers who'd like to receive them – even if it's only two or three, it would be wonderful to have indie support on this very special title. If you'd like to receive some of these lovely starry bookplates, please email Ellie's publicist on niamh.anderson@hodder.co.uk with the quantity and your bookshop address. Thank you!

Penguin Random House

Getting kids back into bookshops during Independent Bookshop Week

Never Grow Up is a celebration of mischief-makers, rule breakers and wild children everywhere, inspired by the mischief and magic of Roald Dahl and illustrated by Quentin Blake – and publishing in time for Independent Bookshop Week.

To help children celebrate independent bookshop week we'd like to recreate some of the beautiful book spreads with window clings of artwork, standees of the glorumptious rhymes to create window displays bespoke to you. The book is a celebration of all the tremendous things children have in store. If you'd like to participate and receive display materials please contact Clare Blanchfield at cblanchfield2@penguinrandomhouse.co.uk.
